LL.B.(Three Years Course) (Third Year) VIth Semester
Paper Code: 604: Paper IV
Legal Research Methods

Course Objectives:

A lawyer is most often faced with the primary task of problem solving and advising on the course of action most suited to the interests of the client. The problem may be complex in nature and may involve different branches of law. It will require sieving the material facts from the immaterial ones. Learning where and how to find the law is as important as the substantive study of various laws. The understanding of facts is critical to the process of identifying favourable precedents and distinguishing the case at hand from other authoritative rulings, which are not in direct support of one's proposition. The strength of a legal argument lies in the thoroughness of the research, which must also be clearly presented, in writing and orally.

Course Outcomes:

Credit-04

On completion of the first module students will be able to distinguish between the different types of laws. On completion of the second module students will be able to tell the different sources of law and their relationship inter se. On completion of the third module students will be able to discuss the important the fundamental concepts underlying the Indian law. On completion of the fourth module students will be able to read, analyse and understand legal writings, and to narrate the reasoning employed by judges in their judgements. On completion of the fifth module students will be able to read judgements, and to analyse and understand the principles laid down in them. On completion of the sixth module students will be able to understand the meaning of research and the steps involved in legal research. They will also apply some basic statistical methods to analyse data.
